The following table shows the results of the regression analysis for the dependent variable "Number of children in the household" (N = 1,000). The independent variables are "Age of the head of household" and "Gender of the head of household". The results are presented in the following table:

It is not clear, however, whether the observed differences in the two groups are due to the different levels of the independent variables or to the different levels of the dependent variables. The results of the present study suggest that the differences in the two groups are due to the different levels of the independent variables. The results of the present study suggest that the differences in the two groups are due to the different levels of the independent variables.

...and the fact that the Journal is a journal of the American Psychological Association, the largest and most influential organization in the field of psychology, adds to the journal's prestige and makes it a must-read for all psychologists.
